First and Last Name	55 Pathan Nasrin Ansar 73 Sayyad Nasrin Ajmoddin
School Name	College of Education Ghargaon
School City	Ghargaon Tal Shrigonda Dist Ahmednagar
Unit Title
Ecosystem
Unit Summary
The Earth is full of wonders. Its ecosystem is a diverse web of interconnected species that live and interact with one another. In this unit the students will explore the various species of plants and animals that make up the biosphere of our planet. They will be introduced to some of the Earth's most unique species in a documentary entitled "Life". Students will also learn to classify these species using the system of taxonomy developed by Carolus Linnaeus. Students will then apply these learnings by developing ways on the conservation and protection of endangered species. They will identify specific threats to biodiversity, worldwide, and how to manage them in different regions and cultures. Through a project-based learning experience, including interactions with peers and scientists living and working in various cultures, students develop and present a specific conservation plan to address identified threats in a region that has been designated as a "biodiversity hotspot."
Subject Area
Geography
Grade Level
8 th Grade Classes
Approximate Time Needed
4 weeks of 50 minute classes
Targeted Content Standards and Benchmarks (taken from Deped K-12 Curriculum Guide)
Grade 8 – Second Semester
1. The concept of a species 2. The species as being further classified into a hierarchical taxonomic system.
Student Objectives/Learning Outcomes
Students must have: 1. Classified organisms using the hierarchal taxonomic systems based on structure and function. 2. Explained the advantage of high biodiversity over low density. 3. Explained the concept of species as a reproductive distinct group of organisms.

Curriculum-Framing Questions

Essential Question	What is essential for life to exist?
Unit Questions	How does pollution affect biodiversity? Why do we need other species to survive?
Content Questions	How will you determine the role and importance of Biodiversity and these organisms in our environment? How do we classify living things? What is a "biodiversity hotspot"?

Ghargaon, Tal. Shrigonda, Dist. A. Nagar

Before the project begins, discussion should be done for the students to have information about biodiversity and the different kinds of organisms. Reveal the presentation of the project for the students to be aware of what is the project all about, to cater them based on the needed standards and for them to prepare. After the discussion, the teacher will give an interactive quiz to know and evaluate the students understanding of the topic. As well as one-sentence summary use to help students summarize the information they had.

Let students to find a group (5 members into a group) for the EAI- the students will conduct a brainstorming to create ideas, opinion and thoughts based on the project and research. Using maps, posters and spreadsheets they can present or sum up their gathered information, thoughts and ideas. After the activity, the teacher can have the observation to monitor the progress of the students. Also the teachers should have teacher's conference, to assess students understanding, cooperation and the process of doing the project.

As they go along with their project the teacher could show the EAI rubric or criteria for the students to be reminded. As the project is done, let the students to have reflection. This is used to know that they had learned from the project that was given. Journals is also used to have the students daily or weekly learned information, that will use as the teacher's basis on how students was able to understand the topic and the project.

Instructional Procedures

Week 1

Day 1-4 -Teacher will introduce though asking the essential questions using Microsoft PowerPoint. Introduce the Lesson and start the discussion proper. Prior to that, the essential questions will be answered by the students through oral recitation. Introduce unit question (How does pollution affect biodiversity? Why do we need other species to survive?). Introduce the content questions (Determine the role and importance of Biodiversity and these organisms in our environment? How do we classify living things? What is a "biodiversity hotspot?").

Day 5 Explain the EAI and its criteria. After discussing the criteria, give them a task to start making their project plan. And remind them that on Monday next week, that they will have an Interactive Quiz about the Lesson.

Week 2

Day 1 The teacher will conduct the Interactive Quiz.

Day 2 Let the students to group themselves into 5 and that will be their permanent group for the EAI. After they group themselves, let them to have a brainstorming on their output and come up with a graphic organizer that sums up their ideas and plan for their project.

Day 3-5 In these three days let the students collaborate and work their project. While the students are doing their project the teacher will room around to gauge or assess the students on their project. While rooming around the teacher will ask what are the problems and questions they want to clarify.

Week 3

Day 1-3 allow your students to visit places where they can see and explore different kinds of organisms. Let them record, gather and analyze data. Let them have an educational guess and prove on how organisms occur and survive in their environment. Based on what they have learned on the places they have visited, ask the students to make a poster that will help in preserving the biodiversity in those places.

Day 4-5 Let the students to organize the data that they had collected. The data gathered will be presented through 3D maps, spreadsheets. While the students were working, you can ask them and observe to see their progress. For them to create the EAI they were able to summarize and understand the data that has been collected. Remind the students that the final submission of the output is near to end.

Week 4

Day 1 The extension of doing the output and additional information can be done. While they were working on their project the teacher can start to check students learning. Also the posters will be check and their data gathered will be reviewed before the final presentation.

Day 2-4 The teacher should allow his/her students to have their reflections and journals based on what they had learned from the previous lesson. Students will then showcase the project. Questioning will be done to evaluate their output. Rubrics and Teacher's evaluation about the student's output of their EAI will be used as the project is presented in the class.

Day 5 At the end of the week the teacher will check the EAI and collect the reflections and journals that made by his/her students.

Accommodations for Differentiated Instruction

Resource Student	• Peer discussion. • Students may be given extended time. • Use webs, charts, and timelines, spreadsheets and maps which can help students incorporate new knowledge into what they already know.
Nonnative English Speaker	• Peer tutoring. • Encourage students to speak in English. • Use graphic organizers to help second language learners remember, organize and understand information and relationships. • Provide opportunities to think about new concepts in non-linguistic ways through pictures and videos. • Students may be given samples or templates for their Excel and Sketch up Work • Written instructions are reinforced verbally and vice versa.
Gifted Student	• Let the students give additional information and share their ideas on creativity.

What was the goal of the project?

- To educate about biodiversity in our surrounding environment and its importance to our existence?

Our Role

- We summarize our different roles for different Weeks of the project.
 - Week 1 : Active learner, Discussion participant
 - Week 2 : Researcher, Searched and gathered information useful for the project
 - Week 3 : Surveyor
 - Week 4: Survey Analyst

Activities for Collecting information

- Week 1 : Discussion with fellow participants.
- Week 2 : Searching for and gathering information from the Internet & books
- Week 3 : Surveying for the information
- Week 4 : Analysis of the results of the survey

Observation/ Derivation with solutions/ Suggestions

- Observations:
 - Most people are ignorant of danger to different species of living organisms.
- Suggestion/ Solution:
 - We need to educate people about how biodiversity is very important for our own existence.
